Marvin has performed well under pressure. You see how it work with tank, that's why it's with tanks you can survive. Marrying a good tank is what will make your char successful. I'm keeping the same philosophy. I think Fnatic was going to that line of thinking. I played the role of being the good-tanking support when I was on Fnatic and now I'm doing the same on NRG. We're trying to do the same thing but they are trying to beat us. Both of them are kind of screwed up, but the way I see it is that they put both the LEC and the LPL as deadzone, but they are not 100% deadzone, because in the LEC Fnatic has said that they were going to troll the LEC. They did it in LEC, like the winner would be given a jersey that does not belong to them. I think this gives NRG a advantage. NRG is willing to do these kinds of things because they think they can't beat NRG in a straight fight, and so they're resorting to trolling. I think NRG is very good at what they do and they are also very good at not taking everything they say seriously. This is because I've done this as support. With Smeb I think it's the same thing. He plays the role of troll so well, he doesn't follow the mentality of what he says. Smeb is a more strict character when he says the first things out. They put all the pressure on Fnatic, and they're trying to do the same thing with NRG. Marvin, you can't be the troll for this match. The same thing happened last time, when they put pressure on you. Don't do anything stupid that can hurt NRG and don't troll. They are threatening me, saying that we don't have to win, but we can win. It's like when you're on bench and you don't do anything. If you don't do anything, they're going to make the stage harder and harder for you. I don't have to win, but I want to win so I can prove that I'm a good support, and I think it's the same for the other members. If I don't do anything, it's like getting my revenge. I want to prove that I'm a good support, and if I lose it's like getting my revenge. I want to make the
